To Whom It May Concern,

I have had the opportunity to watch Coach Malecki conduct practices and coach games. His "Icemen Program" teaches and works the fundamentals, he knows the corrections, and insists on "maximum effort" at each and every practice. His teams play a college type of offense and full court man defense, with solid principles. Coach Malecki has coached High School and College All American's and some very successful pro players. Yet, his motivation is to teach the game to our inland area kids the right way. He has been a college coach, a recruiter, and is a tireless worker. He is a kind and considerate gentleman off the floor.

As a community college coach I appreciate and value Coach Malecki's opinion on player's abilities. He is forthright in his evaluations, and will not refer players to any schools unless they get it done in the classroom and on the floor. He is well respected in coaching circles, gives of his time with coaching clinics and will help his players try to get placed. Most importantly, he is a student/giver of the game. I recommend any high school players, or area coaches looking to give their players off season opportunities to give his program a serious consideration.

Sincerely,
